

MEETING IN AUDITORIUM OF HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY AFTERNOON TO DISCUSS WAR TIME NECESSITIES

Heads Of Sub-Committees Have Issued Almost a Thousand Letters Calling Entire County to Attend Meeting

"DETERMINATION AND PURPOSE"

Clearfield County's part in clothing, feeding and equipping the next army to be raised by conscription is to be thoroughly discussed from every angle at a meeting called for next Saturday to be held at Clearfield, possibly in the Auditorium of the New High School Building.

Next Wednesday there will be about forty of our finest young men enroute for Camp Lee. They will be followed in from two to three weeks by at least that many more. And the end is not yet. Within the next six weeks Clearfield County will have furnished over seven hundred men by selective conscription. These men go to make up the New National Army of 687,000 men and for the most part their needs have been attended to. When these men all get to camp our men in arms will number over one and one half millions.

After these men have been sent to camp it is an assured fact that President Wilson will direct the War Department to again put the machinery of the examining physicians and exemption boards into motion and the well lubricated system of selection will move until another million soldiers will be selected. Knowing as you do, the standing of the men of military age around you, you can almost reach out and touch the men who will go next. Some are relatives, many are bosom friends and you have a speaking acquaintance with practically all of them.

Americans are learning the lessons of preparedness. We no longer believe in sending men to the army and buying their food after they are in camp. It would be murder to send them to the front without an abundance of the best ammunition and the latest type of instruments of war. It is to provide these things for the army that is to be raised that we must arrange for now. Every man and woman who turned out to cheer the boys as they marched away will be on hand Saturday to listen to the discussion of ways and means to sustain those boys in their camps and on the battle fields.

This meeting is not for the purpose of asking those who attend for money. Not one penny will be asked as a donation either at this meeting or at any other time. Uncle Sam is not a beggar in money matters. He borrows money but has never been known to beg it. He has borrowed millions of dollars in the past and never failed to return a penny of it. His credit is what is termed "gilt edged" in the markets of the world. We have the commerce of the world and is now ours for the future and the commerce of the world is what creates work for laborers whether it be in the mill, the factory or in the grocery store.

The Saturday meeting is of County-wide scope. Several of the most prominent men of the County are acting as Chairmen of Sub-Committees to interest the different branches of industry and the institutions of the County.

A. J. Musser is urging every employer of labor in the County to be present at this all important meeting.

Rev. E. C. Reeve has been pressed into service to issue the call to every minister of the gospel to lend co-operation to the movement.

R. I. Fulton has been delegated to invite a representative of every Grange in the County to attend the meeting.

C. A. Wenger has issued a call to every school teacher in the County requesting their presence at the meeting.

The Clearfield County Bankers' Association will be present in a body to pledge their aid to Uncle Sam and the waging of the war to a successful conclusion.

With this kind of team work the High School Auditorium should be filled to overflowing. It is not sufficient for anyone to say to themselves "I will help." Attendance at the meeting will show your interest and stir others to action.

The hour of meeting is 2 p. m. next Saturday and while it will not be possible for every individual to be present at that hour it is incumbent on the organizations and institutions enumerated above to be represented. If you have received no other request to be present consider this your invitation. Make this meeting one that the boys in the trenches will hear about.

LEAGUE WANTS THE DRAFT AGE REDUCED

Advocating Amendment That Will Take in Boys Of Nine-teen To Twenty-one

CIVIL WAR FIGURES ARE CITED

By George Martin.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Sept. 26.—The Army League, claiming to be backed by the war department general staff, today advocated immediate amendment of the selective draft law to include youths of 19 and 20.

Among the officers of this organization are Joseph Leiter, president; ex-president Taft, honorary vice-president; Perry Belmont, Dr. William T. Hernaday, Dr. Benjamin Wheeler, vice-presidents, and Clark Howell, George W. C. Drexel, Thomas Nelson Page, Col. George Truesdell and Gen. John A. Johnston, members of the executive council.

The league says the general staff thinks those boys are needed and should be conscripted and put in training at once to insure triumphal closing of the European war.

Asserting that youths of this age have played vitally important in previous wars, the league quotes Lieut. Gen. S. M. B. Young's statement, gleaned from the records of the war department as to ages of soldiers in the civil war. There are:

Boys ten years of age and under 35; eleven or under, 38; twelve, 225; thirteen, 300; fourteen, 1,523; fifteen, 104,987; sixteen, 231,051; seventeen, 844,091; eighteen, 1,151,438; twenty-two, 1,599,799; twenty-two and over, 46,926.

"To keep down the expenses of conducting the war," said the league's statement, "the government should avoid as far as possible the calling of men with dependents. Even at greater cost it is doubtful whether as many men can be secured between the ages of 21 and 31 as will be available between 19 and 21."

"The amendment could be so framed that the men called out under it would not be placed in active military service until they have reached the age of 21."

"The time that has been consumed in putting into effect the existing law should convince anyone who has been watching the progress of our preparations for war that congress should take up this legislation immediately."

ATTRACTING CLEARFIELD COUNTY PEOPLE

To Clearfield county people the most attractive event, apparently, in Pittsburgh this fall is the State Sunday school convention to be held in that city October 9, 10, 11 and 12. At least that is the logical deduction from the number of delegates already registered. Only a few more are needed to fill the county's quota. Only actual Sunday school members are eligible to receive delegates' credentials. Of course the number of visitors permitted is unlimited. Round trip tickets are purchasable at all stations at rate of two cents per mile. All the state conventions have been intensely interesting but this one seems destined to outdo all predecessors. Information and delegates' credentials (limited to the quota allowed) may be secured from S. C. Watts, Clearfield, Pa.

FULLINGTON BUS LINE ASKING CHARTER

Public Service Commission Puts In Busy Day Hearing Complaints And Applications

BLAIR JITNEY SCRAP AIRED

Harrisburg, Sept. 26.—Application for approval of the incorporation of the Fullington Auto-Bus company was heard today by the Public Service Commission. Its proposed charter specifies jitney service in Clearfield, Curwensville and Woodland, and intermediate points.

H. R. Williams had John J. Lin-genfelger et al., before the commission on a complaint of running competing jitneys between Hollidaysburg and Roaring Springs without having certificates of public convenience. W. C. Ernest, operating between Sarah Furnace and Hollidaysburg, had William Snyder up on a similar charge.

Two complaints against increased trolley fares were heard. One is the case of Sarah M. Penrose against the Carlisle & Mt. Holly street railway company, et al., and the other is that of Michael Hartneady, a United Mine Workers' official, against the Eastern Pennsylvania railways company; the Penrose case is in Cumberland county, the Hartneady case in Carbon. Alleged excessive rates also form the basis of a complaint by John Weaver against the Overbrook Steam Heat company, and of the Chartiers Creek coal company against the West Penn Power company; inadequate service is likewise alleged in the latter case.

Glassport boro asked permission to purchase the property and rights of the Monongahela Water company in that boro and operate a municipal plant, while the Johnstown Water company asked permission to buy the Conemaugh & Franklin Water company.

Other complaints heard today include: Lehigh Portland Cement company, alleging excessive freight rates charged by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway company at New Castle; Central Telephone company, alleging that the Windber Telephone company encroaches upon its territory in Somerset county and that the respondent constructed a line without a certificate from the Public Service commission; W. M. Benninger vs. Central Railroad of New Jersey, alleging a dangerous grade crossing at Lehigh Gap.

Applications heard today include one by the Monongahela Southern Railroad company for an above-grade crossing at Coal Valley, Jefferson county and a triple contract for a bridge over Big Run at Moravia street, New Castle; the parties to this agreement are the New Castle Electric Street Railway company, the Mahoning & Shenango Railway & Light company and Lawrence county.

NOTICE

Those who are collecting money for the "Books for Soldiers" fund or those who desire to contribute to this cause may hand their money to Dr. E. C. Reeve or any of the banks of Clearfield at any time. It is preferred however that remittances be made promptly in order that the campaign may be closed as soon as possible.

The Whole Blooming Story About The Passenger And The Aeroplane

Professor Williams Demonstrated That He Could Carry A Passenger By Doing So

It is not generally known that Professor Williams who was here last week as the aviator at the Fair actually took a passenger for a short flight while here. The possibility of the carriage of passengers by Professor Williams has been the subject of much comment around town and in justice to him we deem it only right to present the whole story as we happen to know it.

Professor Williams had no sooner landed in Clearfield than he was approached by W. E. Murphy of The Progress who begged to be allowed to make a flight with him. We knew that Professor Williams was carrying passengers because of newspaper clippings from places he has recently exhibited his ability. Professor Williams assured Mr. Murphy that if he found weather conditions favorable and safe and the air currents of the river valley not to hazardous he would take him along. Mr. Murphy waited until Thursday evening for the flight but Professor Williams found the air currents treacherous over the river and would not consent to carry him. Mr. Murphy then departed for Philadelphia where he entered a medical college as he could not wait any longer for the trip.

On Friday morning Professor Williams was a visitor to The Progress office and cordially invited the editor to make a flight with him that afternoon but the editor politely expressed his regrets and stated that the Local Exemption board might find cause to call in his discharge from military service if he voluntarily undertook such a journey regardless of his responsibility to four dependents.

At this point our heroine makes her appearance in this little narrative of a trip through the air which remains to be taken. Miss Elsie Bailey, a member of the Progress office force, voiced her desire to ascend into the realms of the clouds and in such positive terms that Professor Williams agreed to take her along. Preparations were immediately made. Arrangements were made for the transportation of the young lady to the landing place on the Owens farm where the aviator was to alight, take on the passenger and proceed back to the fair grounds but the weather was interrupted to break up all plans. Sooner had the aviator left the Owens farm than a brick wind began to blow and the trip was off for that day at least. Saturday the aviator and the young lady played a waiting game all day but the treacherous cross currents over the river where it tumbled down through the East End continued to warn the experienced aviator not to make the trip with a passenger. It would be hazardous. Sunday evening gave promise of being ideal for the trip. Early in the morning Professor Williams flew across to the Owens farm and it was at this point that the passenger, Miss Elsie Bailey, nephew of L. P. Geynet, superintendent of the Silk Plush mill, was given a short ride on the aeroplane. The wind had raised again, however, and Professor Williams announced that he would not try to carry a passenger back to the fair grounds unless the wind quit blowing. The return to Sunday evening and at that time the weather conditions were more favorable than ever.

Why Give One Million Dollars Of Money For The Soldiers' Libraries

This Question Answered by The Library War Council To Satisfy Every Contributor

Because that is the least amount, already been made. Each building in the experience of the American Library association and the Library War council, needed to supply libraries to our soldiers at the front, in the field, in cantonments, in training camps, and on board the troop ships.

There are thirty-two cantonment library buildings to be erected. Skilled librarians must be employed. At once 350,000 fresh, clean books must be purchased for the larger cantonments, and these and the other reading matter must be properly kept up and maintained and transported. It will be necessary to have sufficient funds on hand so that the reading matter in greatest demand among the soldiers, textbooks and the like, may be duplicated and replaced and each library maintained in a high state of efficiency.

One of the heaviest items of expense at the beginning of this work is the erection of the library buildings at the various cantonments throughout the country. Plans for these have already been made. Each building will be 40x120 feet in size, one story high, and will have accommodations for ten thousand books, newspapers and magazines, and living quarters for the staff. Each of these libraries will be in charge of a trained librarian. In each camp it is planned to have a library headquarters with books and periodicals for reading, room use, together with a complete system of distributing agencies, affording to the soldiers a first-class city public library service. Without this character of service any library would be a useless thing.

It is for these services that the Library War Council needs $1,000,000.

When it comes to consideration of our soldiers and sailors, it is not what a service costs, but what the best is worth that counts. In view of the great service to be rendered, the question is not: "What are we going to do with so much money?" but rather, "What one eminent librarian has asked: "Will $1,000,000 be enough?"

WHERE TO LOOK FOR PACIFISTS

Unfortunately the majority of pacifists and Kaiser backers are not to be found among aliens. Enemy aliens are open to suspicion more than anyone else and as a result we are prone to look upon each of them with apprehension. Ofttimes charges of sedition and seditious utterances are made against aliens when an investigation shows that they have been misunderstood. One of the best criterions of the loyalty of aliens and foreign born residents of this country is the number who bought Liberty Bonds.

To ascertain the extent to which railroad employees of foreign birth subscribed to the first Liberty Loan, a special investigation has been completed on the directly operated lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad East of Pittsburgh and Erie. The result of this inquiry shows that out of a total of 160,127 employes, in all departments, 25,827 were born in foreign countries. There were, among all the employes—both native and foreign born—52,782 subscriptions, totaling more than $3,400,000.

Nearly one in three of the foreign-born employes was found to have been a Liberty Bond purchaser. The exact number of subscribers of alien birth was 8,146, or almost 32 per cent. of the total foreign-born. This was within two per cent. of the proportion of employes of American birth who subscribed.

The Italian race furnished the largest number of foreign-born employes on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the number being 8,365, or, practically one-third of all the alien born. Thirty-two per cent. of the Italians, or a total of 2,725 employes, bought Liberty Bonds.

Employes of Irish birth were found to number 3,139, of whom 1,299, or 43 per cent, subscribed to the Liberty Loan. English born employes numbered 1,875, and 663 of them, or 36 per cent., were subscribers. Out of 2,466 men of Russian and Polish birth, 790, or 33 per cent., invested in the Liberty Loan.

Of the nationalities representing the Central Powers, employes of Austro-Hungarian birth were shown to be the most numerous. They aggregated 3,977 men, and of these 1,097, or 27 per cent., subscribed to the Liberty Bonds. The Austro-Hungarians rank next to Italians in respect to the total number employed.

Of men of German birth, the Railroad payrolls carried the names of 2,060, and of these 680, or 32 per cent., were subscribers to the Liberty Loan. There were found to be in the service 97 men of Turkish nativity, and 43 of these, or 44 per cent. of the total, bought Liberty Bonds.

The smaller countries allied with the Central Powers were not very well represented among employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad. On all divisions put together, the Bulgarians employed numbered only 37, and no record can be found that any of these purchased Liberty Bonds.

Some interesting facts are shown in connection with other nationalities. The Scotch stand high on the scale of thrift. Out of 247 Scotchmen 155, or 65 per cent., invested savings in the Liberty Bonds.

The Canadians followed closely. Out of 83 men of Canadian birth 49, or 59 per cent. of the total, bought Liberty Bonds. There are only 49 Frenchmen in the service, and of these 24, or very nearly one-half, were subscribers. Of men of Belgian birth, 12 were found to be in the service, five of whom, or 41 per cent., subscribed to Liberty Loan Bonds.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 26.—The State of Iowa is experiencing a novelty in the way of prohibition campaigns. Though a contest is on to decide whether or not the state will adopt constitutional prohibition, there has been little or no effort so far in out by the supreme court on a technical campaign to justify the saloons, nicety and the temperance forces.

Iowa once before voted on constitutional prohibition, as far back as 1882, and it carried by some 23,000 votes. The amendment was knocked out by the supreme court on a technical campaign to justify the saloons, nicety and the temperance forces. This is largely because of the fact that Iowa is already as dry as laws can make it, and the laws are being pretty thoroughly enforced.

The state went dry two years ago by an act of the legislature, most of the counties having already been so-called saloonless before the final blow was dealt the saloons. Temperance forces are working now to put prohibition into the constitution, thereby making it impossible to bring back the saloons by an act of the legislature.

There is apparently no organized opposition to the amendment. In view of the fact that the state is already dry, the national liquor interests are not putting up any fight.

CITY BAND IS SOON TO BE A REALITY

Most Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night To Further The Project Of Good Musical Organization

ANOTHER MEETING TUESDAY

The meeting last evening for the purpose of taking the necessary steps looking toward the organization of a band for Clearfield, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms was fairly well attended, more than twenty-five persons being in attendance. W. I. Betts presided and after talking of the purpose of the meeting called upon Dr. F. D. Leipold to talk "band." The Doctor responded and after giving a brief history of the band business in Clearfield for the past fifteen years, enumerated the band property remaining in the hands of the old band members and said about all these old members were willing to affiliate themselves with a new band, should it be decided to organize one.

Remarks were made by William Bigler, E. E. Jameson, Charles S. Rockwell, Gerald Wallace and others and it was finally decided to have Dr. Leipold name a committee of five prospective band members to meet a like committee of business men appointed by Mr. Betts, these committees to get together in the same meeting place next Tuesday evening and make the necessary preliminary organization.

According to the musicians present there are at last fifteen members of the old Fifth Regiment band here who would join the new band and several other band men about town who would go in. The idea appeared to be that a band of about thirty pieces should be secured and work to this end will be undertaken. With the members already here we have the nucleus of a strong band, the necessity being for trombone, baritone and clarinet players, and an effort will be made to secure these players.

Desirable men will be advertised for and an effort made to land jobs for the men when secured. It is the purpose to perfect a thorough business organization and give the town what it needs and should have a first class band.

Let everybody put their shoulder to the wheel and help the project along as a matter of town pride.

MEETING IN AUDITORIUM OF HIGH SCHOOL SATURDAY AFTERNOON TO DISCUSS WAR TIME NECESSITIES

"DETERMINATION AND PURPOSE"

Clearfield County's part in clothing, feeding and equipping the next army to be raised by conscription is to be thoroughly discussed from every angle at a meeting called for next Saturday to be held at Clearfield, possibly in the Auditorium of the New High School Building.

Next Wednesday there will be about forty of our finest young men enroute for Camp Lee. They will be followed in from two to three weeks by at least that many more. And the end is not yet. Within the next six weeks Clearfield County will have furnished over seven hundred men by selective conscription. These men go to make up the New National Army of 687,000 men and for the most part their needs have been attended to. When these men all get to camp our men in arms will number over one and one half millions.

After these men have been sent to camp it is an assured fact that President Wilson will direct the War Department to again put the machinery of the examining physicians and exemption boards into motion and the well lubricated system of selection will move until another million soldiers will be selected. Knowing as you do, the standing of the men of military age around you, you can almost reach out and touch the men who will go next. Some are relatives, many are bosom friends and you have a speaking acquaintance with practically all of them.

Americans are learning the lessons of preparedness. We no longer believe in sending men to the army and buying their food after they are in camp. It would be murder to send them to the front without an abundance of the best ammunition and the latest type of instruments of war. It is to provide these things for the army that is to be raised that we must arrange for now. Every man and woman who turned out to cheer the boys as they marched away will be on hand Saturday to listen to the discussion of ways and means to sustain those boys in their camps and on the battle fields.

This meeting is not for the purpose of asking those who attend for money. Not one penny will be asked as a donation either at this meeting or at any other time. Uncle Sam is not a beggar in money matters. He borrows money but has never been known to beg it. He has borrowed millions of dollars in the past and never failed to return a penny of it. His credit is what is termed "gilt edged" in the markets of the world. We have the commerce of the world and is now ours for the future and the commerce of the world is what creates work for laborers whether it be in the mill, the factory or in the grocery store.

The Saturday meeting is of County-wide scope. Several of the most prominent men of the County are acting as Chairmen of Sub-Committees to interest the different branches of industry and the institutions of the County.

A. J. Musser is urging every employer of labor in the County to be present at this all important meeting.

Rev. E. C. Reeve has been pressed into service to issue the call to every minister of the gospel to lend co-operation to the movement.

R. I. Fulton has been delegated to invite a representative of every Grange in the County to attend the meeting.

C. A. Wenger has issued a call to every school teacher in the County requesting their presence at the meeting.

The Clearfield County Bankers' Association will be present in a body to pledge their aid to Uncle Sam and the waging of the war to a successful conclusion.

With this kind of team work the High School Auditorium should be filled to overflowing. It is not sufficient for anyone to say to themselves "I will help." Attendance at the meeting will show your interest and stir others to action.

The hour of meeting is 2 p. m. next Saturday and while it will not be possible for every individual to be present at that hour it is incumbent on the organizations and institutions enumerated above to be represented. If you have received no other request to be present consider this your invitation. Make this meeting one that the boys in the trenches will hear about.

LEAGUE WANTS THE DRAFT AGE REDUCED

Advocating Amendment That Will Take in Boys Of Nine-teen To Twenty-one

CIVIL WAR FIGURES ARE CITED

By George Martin.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Sept. 26.—The Army League, claiming to be backed by the war department general staff, today advocated immediate amendment of the selective draft law to include youths of 19 and 20.

Among the officers of this organization are Joseph Leiter, president; ex-president Taft, honorary vice-president; Perry Belmont, Dr. William T. Harnaday, Dr. Benjamin Wheeler, vice-presidents, and Clark Howell, George W. C. Drexel, Thomas Nelson Page, Col. George Truesdell and Gen. John A. Johnston, members of the executive council.

The league says the general staff thinks those boys are needed and should be conscripted and put in training at once to insure triumphal closing of the European war.

Asserting that youths of this age have played vitally important in previous wars, the league quotes Lieut. Gen. S. M. B. Young's statement, gleaned from the records of the war department as to ages of soldiers in the civil war. There are:

Boys ten years of age and under 35; eleven or under, 38; twelve, 225; thirteen, 300; fourteen, 1,523; fifteen, 104,987; sixteen, 231,051; seventeen, 844,091; eighteen, 1,151,438; twenty-two, 1,259,799; twenty-two and over, 46,926.

"To keep down the expenses of conducting the war," said the league's statement, "the government should avoid as far as possible the calling of men with dependents. Even at greater cost it is doubtful whether as many men can be secured between the ages of 21 and 31 as will be available between 19 and 21."

"The amendment could be so framed that the men called out under it would not be placed in active military service until they have reached the age of 21."

"The time that has been consumed in putting into effect the existing law should convince anyone who has been watching the progress of our preparations for war that congress should take up this legislation immediately."

ATTRACTING CLEARFIELD COUNTY PEOPLE

To Clearfield county people the most attractive event, apparently, in Pittsburgh this fall is the State Sunday school convention to be held in that city October 9, 10, 11 and 12. At least that is the logical deduction from the number of delegates already registered. Only a few more are needed to fill the county's quota. Only actual Sunday school members are eligible to receive delegates' credentials. Of course the number of visitors permitted is unlimited. Round trip tickets are purchasable at all stations at rate of two cents per mile. All the state conventions have been intensely interesting but this one seems destined to outdo all predecessors. Information and delegates' credentials (limited to the quota allowed) may be secured from S. C. Watts, Clearfield, Pa.

FULLINGTON BUS LINE ASKING CHARTER

Public Service Commission Puts In Busy Day Hearing Complaints And Applications

BLAIR JITNEY SCRAP AIRED

Harrisburg, Sept. 26.—Application for approval of the incorporation of the Fullington Auto-Bus company was heard today by the Public Service Commission. Its proposed charter specifies jitney service in Clearfield, Curwensville and Woodland, and intermediate points.

H. R. Williams had John J. Lin-genfelger et al., before the commission on a complaint of running competing jitneys between Hollidaysburg and Roaring Springs without having certificates of public convenience. W. C. Ernest, operating between Sarah Furnace and Hollidaysburg, had William Snyder up on a similar charge.

Two complaints against increased trolley fares were heard. One is the case of Sarah M. Penrose against the Carlisle & Mt. Holly street railway company, et al., and the other is that of Michael Hartneady, a United Mine Workers' official, against the Eastern Pennsylvania railways company; the Penrose case is in Cumberland county, the Hartneady case in Carbon. Alleged excessive rates also form the basis of a complaint by John Weaver against the Overbrook Steam Heat company, and of the Chartiers Creek coal company against the West Penn Power company; inadequate service is likewise alleged in the latter case.

Glassport boro asked permission to purchase the property and rights of the Monongahela Water company in that boro and operate a municipal plant, while the Johnstown Water company asked permission to buy the Conemaugh & Franklin Water company.

Other complaints heard today include: Lehigh Portland Cement company, alleging excessive freight rates charged by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway company at New Castle; Central Telephone company, alleging that the Windber Telephone company encroaches upon its territory in Somerset county and that the respondent constructed a line without a certificate from the Public Service commission; W. M. Benninger vs. Central Railroad of New Jersey, alleging a dangerous grade crossing at Lehigh Gap.

Applications heard today include one by the Monongahela Southern Railroad company for an above-grade crossing at Coal Valley, Jefferson county and a triple contract for a bridge over Big Run at Moravia street, New Castle; the parties to this agreement are the New Castle Electric Street Railway company, the Mahoning & Shenango Railway & Light company and Lawrence county.

NOTICE

Those who are collecting money for the "Books for Soldiers" fund or those who desire to contribute to this cause may hand their money to Dr. E. C. Reeve or any of the banks of Clearfield at any time. It is preferred however that remittances be made promptly in order that the campaign may be closed as soon as possible.

The Whole Blooming Story About The Passenger And The Aeroplane

Professor Williams Demonstrated That He Could Carry A Passenger By Doing So

It is not generally known that Professor Williams who was here last week as the aviator at the Fair actually took a passenger for a short flight while here. The possibility of the carriage of passengers by Professor Williams has been the subject of much comment around town and in justice to him we deem it only right to present the whole story as we happen to know it.

Professor Williams had no sooner landed in Clearfield than he was approached by W. E. Murphy of The Progress who begged to be allowed to make a flight with him. We knew that Professor Williams was carrying passengers because of newspaper clippings from places he has recently exhibited his ability. Professor Williams assured Mr. Murphy that if he found weather conditions favorable and safe and the air currents of the river valley not to hazardous he would take him along. Mr. Murphy waited until Thursday evening for the flight but Professor Williams found the air currents treacherous over the river and would not consent to carry him. Mr. Murphy then departed for Philadelphia where he entered a medical college as he could not wait any longer for the trip.

On Friday morning Professor Williams was a visitor to The Progress office and cordially invited the editor to make a flight with him that afternoon but the editor politely expressed his regrets and stated that the Local Exemption board might find cause to call in his discharge from military service if he voluntarily undertook such a journey regardless of his responsibility to four dependents.

At this point our heroine makes her appearance in this little narrative of a trip through the air which remains to be taken. Miss Elsie Bailey, a member of the Progress office force, voiced her desire to ascend into the realms of the clouds and in such positive terms that Professor Williams agreed to take her along. Preparations were immediately made. Arrangements were made for the transportation of the young lady to the landing place on the Owens farm where the aviator was to alight, take on the passenger and proceed back to the fair grounds but the weather was interrupted to break up all plans. Sooner had the aviator left the Owens farm than a brick wind began to blow and the trip was off for that day at least. Saturday the aviator and the young lady played a waiting game all day but the treacherous cross currents over the river where it tumbled down through the East End continued to warn the experienced aviator not to make the trip with a passenger. It would be hazardous. Sunday evening gave promise of being ideal for the trip. Early in the morning Professor Williams flew across to the Owens farm and it was at this point that the passenger, Miss Elsie Bailey, nephew of L. P. Gaynet, superintendent of the Silk Plush mill, was given a short ride on the aeroplane. The wind had raised again, however, and Professor Williams announced that he would not try to carry a passenger back to the fair grounds unless the wind quit blowing. The return to Sunday evening and at that time the weather conditions were more favorable than ever.

Professor Williams must be given credit for being a careful and conscientious follower of the flying game. He positively refuses to jeopardize the life of anyone and takes no foolish risks himself. Miss Bailey was glad to the end. Ready at every moment to respond to the summons of the aviator to make the trip and while the disappointment is very great Professor Williams assured her that should he return here next summer he will not forget the trip in the air which he promised her.

Why Give One Million Dollars Of Money For The Soldiers' Libraries

Because that is the least amount, already been made. Each building in the experience of the American Library association and the Library War council, needed to supply libraries to our soldiers at the front, in the field, in cantonments, in training camps, and on board the troop ships.

There are thirty-two cantonment library buildings to be erected. Skilled librarians must be employed. At once 350,000 fresh, clean books must be purchased for the larger cantonments, and these and the other reading matter must be properly kept up and maintained and transported. It will be necessary to have sufficient funds on hand so that the reading matter in greatest demand among the soldiers, textbooks and the like, may be duplicated and replaced and each library maintained in a high state of efficiency.

One of the heaviest items of expense at the beginning of this work is the erection of the library buildings at the various cantonments throughout the country. Plans for these have already been made. Each building will be 40x120 feet in size, one story high, and will have accommodations for ten thousand books, newspapers and magazines, and living quarters for the staff. Each of these libraries will be in charge of a trained librarian. In each camp it is planned to have a library headquarters with books and periodicals for reading, room use, together with a complete system of distributing agencies, affording to the soldiers a first-class city public library service. Without this character of service any library would be a useless thing.

It is for these services that the Library War Council needs $1,000,000.

When it comes to consideration of our soldiers and sailors, it is not what a service costs, but what the best is worth that counts. In view of the great service to be rendered, the question is not: "What are we going to do with so much money?" but rather, "What one eminent librarian has asked: "Will $1,000,000 be enough?"

WHERE TO LOOK FOR PACIFISTS

Unfortunately the majority of pacifists and Kaiser backers are not to be found among aliens. Enemy aliens are open to suspicion more than anyone else and as a result we are prone to look upon each of them with apprehension. Oftimes charges of sedition and seditious utterances are made against aliens when an investigation shows that they have been misunderstood. One of the best criterions of the loyalty of aliens and foreign born residents of this country is the number who bought Liberty Bonds.

To ascertain the extent to which railroad employees of foreign birth subscribed to the first Liberty Loan, a special investigation has been completed on the directly operated lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad East of Pittsburgh and Erie. The result of this inquiry shows that out of a total of 160,127 employes, in all departments, 25,827 were born in foreign countries. There were, among all the employes—both native and foreign born—52,782 subscriptions, totaling more than $3,400,000.

Nearly one in three of the foreign-born employes was found to have been a Liberty Bond purchaser. The exact number of subscribers of alien birth was 8,146, or almost 32 per cent. of the total foreign-born. This was within two per cent. of the proportion of employes of American birth who subscribed.

The Italian race furnished the largest number of foreign-born employes on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the number being 8,365, or, practically one-third of all the alien born. Thirty-two per cent. of the Italians, or a total of 2,725 employes, bought Liberty Bonds.

Employees of Irish birth were found to number 3,139, of whom 1,299, or 43 per cent, subscribed to the Liberty Loan. English born employes numbered 1,875, and 663 of them, or 36 per cent., were subscribers. Out of 2,466 men of Russian and Polish birth, 790, or 33 per cent., invested in the Liberty Loan.

Of the nationalities representing the Central Powers, employes of Austro-Hungarian birth were shown to be the most numerous. They aggregated 3,977 men, and of these 1,097, or 27 per cent., subscribed to the Liberty Bonds. The Austro-Hungarians rank next to Italians in respect to the total number employed.

Of men of German birth, the Railroad payrolls carried the names of 2,060, and of these 680, or 33 per cent., were subscribers to the Liberty Loan. There were found to be in the service 97 men of Turkish nativity, and 43 of these, or 44 per cent. of the total, bought Liberty Bonds.

The smaller countries allied with the Central Powers were not very well represented among employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad. On all divisions put together, the Bulgarians employed numbered only 37, and no record can be found that any of these purchased Liberty Bonds.

Some interesting facts are shown in connection with other nationalities. The Scotch stand high on the scale of thrift. Out of 247 Scotchmen 155, or 63 per cent., invested savings in the Liberty Bonds.

The Canadians followed closely. Out of 83 men of Canadian birth 49, or 59 per cent. of the total, bought Liberty Bonds. There are only 49 Frenchmen in the service, and of these 24, or very nearly one-half, were subscribers. Of men of Belgian birth, 12 were found to be in the service, five of whom, or 41 per cent., subscribed to Liberty Loan Bonds.

PROHIBITION CAMPAIGN IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 26.—The State of Iowa is experiencing a novelty in the way of prohibition campaigns. Though a contest is on to decide whether or not the state will adopt constitutional prohibition, there has been little or no effort so far in out by the supreme court on a technical campaign to justify the saloons, nicety and the temperance forces.

Iowa once before voted on constitutional prohibition, as far back as 1882, and it carried by some 23,000 votes. The amendment was knocked out by the supreme court on a technical campaign to justify the saloons, nicety and the temperance forces. This is largely because of the fact that Iowa is already as dry as laws can make it, and the laws are being pretty thoroughly enforced.

The state went dry two years ago by an act of the legislature, most of the counties having already been so-called saloonless before the final blow was interests are not putting up any fight

News of the Day Culled From Various Sources

DRAFT MEN TO BE SENT OVER BY APRIL 1ST

Plans in Preparation for Sending Large Proportion of Men Across Sea Near That Date

Washington, Sept. 25.—Plans are now in preparation at the war department to have a large proportion of the drafted men now in training camps in France by early spring. There they will be put through a course of intensive training.

The second call will be sooner than is generally believed and this is why the war department is so much interested in proceeding with the examination of the 7,000,000 registered men who have not been called.

This proposition is tied up temporarily by the fact that an appropriation is necessary before the work can proceed. Figures are extremely taboo with the war department these days, but it is no violation of the censorship to state that it is hoped to move approximately 150,000 to 200,000 men to France to complete their training there. It is hoped in some quarters that this can be done by the end of April.

SMALL OPERATORS SHUTTING DOWN PLANTS RAPIDLY

DuBois, Sept. 26.—Small coal operators who closed down their plants several weeks ago and then reopened in the expectation that higher prices would prevail, have again shut down. This time the shutdown comes about as the result of the government's mandate that there must be a "reasonable charge for delivery." It is stated that in the neighborhood of sixty small operators in this section alone have closed. The wagon loaders agree that they cannot mine coal and sell it at the mines for $2 per ton. They have heard from Dr. Garfield that to sell the coal for $2 at the mines and then charge for hauling it to the cars or to the customers, would be a violation of the President's orders, unless the coal were sold directly to the consumer and not through a commission man or broker for reselling.

The wagon loaders have also found it impossible to get cars. Agents of companies have been confronted with the same difficulty.

Practically all coal that was sold before the price was fixed was "spot" coal, or coal that had not been contracted for. Now there is not a pound of "spot" coal to be found at any price. What fuel is being sold is under contract. Some of the contract prices are not fancy ones, but the operators find they are better off than not selling any coal at all.

COAL WORKERS AND OPERATORS AT DEADLOCK

Wilson's Efforts Likely to Be Sought to Iron out Differences

Washington, Sept. 25.—Negotiations between the coal operators and the miners over a wage increase reached a point tonight where it appeared likely that President Wilson might soon be called upon to step in and iron out apparently irreconcilable differences in order to maintain production necessary to the wartime needs of the country.

The threat of a "showdown" came when the miners' representatives held an executive session late in the afternoon and frame a "demand" for radical increases which the operators promptly answered by the assertion that half the mines in the country would be closed down by the acceptance of such a wage scale, under the prices fixed for bituminous coal by the recent Presidential proclamation. The "demands" will be placed before the operators formally tomorrow morning.

APPEARING IN FRANCE

Oh! what is that those Frenchmen see
Arising from afar?
And slowly it advances
Why, it is a star—
'Tis many stais upon a field of blue!
And on it comes so slow, but sure,
Its stripes begin to show,
As it is borne aloft.
Its colors glow!
Why surely, yes, it is the stars and stripes!
'Tis borne aloft by loyal hands
Whose courage never fails,
But, on they march to glory
Their faces stern and pale,
As, with a purpose fixed and true
They go
To glory or the grave.

"I've come to win this victory!" says Uncle Sam.
His clothes are rough,
And grim he looks.
His words are slow and gruff,
But, with a purpose grim and hard,
He stands firm and bold.

CITY BAND IS SOON TO BE A REALITY

Most Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night To Further The Project Of Good Musical Organization

ANOTHER MEETING TUESDAY

The meeting last evening for the purpose of taking the necessary steps looking toward the organization of a band for Clearfield, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms was fairly well attended, more than twenty-five persons being in attendance. W. I. Betts presided and after talking of the purpose of the meeting called upon Dr. F. D. Leipold to talk "band." The Doctor responded and after giving a brief history of the band business in Clearfield for the past fifteen years, enumerated the band property remaining in the hands of the old band members and said about all these old members were willing to affiliate themselves with a new band, should it be decided to organize one.

Remarks were made by William Bigler, E. E. Jameson, Charles S. Rockwell, Gerald Wallace and others and it was finally decided to have Dr. Leipold name a committee of five prospective band members to meet a like committee of business men appointed by Mr. Betts, these committees to get together in the same meeting place next Tuesday evening and make the necessary preliminary organization.

According to the musicians present there are at last fifteen members of the old Fifth Regiment band here who would join the new band and several other band men about town who would go in. The idea appeared to be that a band of about thirty pieces should be secured and work to this end will be undertaken. With the members already here we have the nucleus of a strong band, the necessity being for trombone, baritone and clarinet players, and an effort will be made to secure these players.

Desirable men will be advertised for and an effort made to land jobs for the men when secured. It is the purpose to perfect a thorough business organization and give the town what it needs and should have a first class band.

Let everybody put their shoulder to the wheel and help the project along as a matter of town pride.
